END OF LIFE CARE
Presbyterian Village

Quality of life is vital at any stage, but never more important than when you have been given a terminal diagnosis. You want to live out the remainder of your days on your terms. You seek peace and no longer desire treatment measures. PSL can help you and your family during this time. Dignity is promoted by minimizing pain, discomfort, and providing active support of the psychological, social, emotional and spiritual needs of you and your family throughout the continuum of care, including during the dying process. PSL works with families and residents to create individualized care plans when the end of life is imminent. The goal is to honor the remainder of your time on this earth. We work with you to minimize pain and symptoms and improve comfort not only physically but emotionally, socially, intellectually and spiritually for you and your support system. At times, this care may be supplemented with hospice services from an outside agency cooperatively supporting the individual with the PSL team and family.

Presbyterian Village offers End of Life Care where you can maintain independence while receiving the assistance needed. We provide physical support services and supervision of medical needs by the nursing team.

Veterans and surviving spouses who require End of Life Care may be eligible for assistance from the Veterans Administration. Presbyterian Village offers assistance with obtaining these benefits should you qualify for them. Some long-term care insurance policies may also pay for End of Life Care.
